

Dogs welcome

Last Sunday, we took a family trip. I, my husband and our dog Zak went to Gulf County because Zak wanted to run and romp in the gulf. He could do so in Gulf County, but in his own backyard it is a citation. I traveled 50 miles and met a woman who told me she went to Cape San Blas as well all the time, but her dog had just been run over this week. She also told me of the beach of Windmark, which is also pet friendly. Funny how you make friends on the beach with a dog.

We spent a few hours on the beach with Zak, he got to fish and frolic in the waves. He had a great time. Why can't he do this in our backyard? It's so sad that we have to go so far. I spent money in Gulf County on food and beverages and will continue to do so. I would rather support a pet-friendly place. We are losing money in this county. They are picking up on what we are losing out on. What will it take to bring our whole family to the beach? I will continue to go to Gulf County and spend my money there to take my dog.
